

Gifted Education Resources

Purpose:

This site was designed to be a resource for both parents and professionals who are looking for print and/or web resources in the area of gifted education. Enjoy!

Parents:

1. Hoagies' Gifted Education Page: <http://www.hoagiesgifted.org/>

*This website is maintained by a parent who became interested in gifted education after having children. This site includes many articles, book titles, and links to other sites with information on gifted education.

*K, Carolyn. Hoagie's Gifted Education Page. (1997). Retrieved November 12, 2007, <http://www.hoagiesgifted.org>.

2. Supporting Emotional Needs of the Gifted: <http://www.sengifted.org/index.shtml>

*SENG offers information on local parent groups, as well as articles to read that focus on the emotional needs of students who are gifted.

*Supporting Emotional Needs of the Gifted. (2007). Retrieved November 12, 2007, <http://www.sengifted.org/index.shtml>.

3. Duke University Talent Identification Program: <http://www.tip.duke.edu/>

*This website describes a local program for students in grades four and up that can take place during the summer or school year.

*Duke University Talent Identification Program. (2007). Duke University. Retrieved November 12, 2007, <http://tip.duke.edu/>.

4. NEAG Center for Gifted Education and Talent Development:
<http://www.gifted.uconn.edu/nrcgt/>

*This site is sponsored by the University of Connecticut and includes a parent resource link. This link lists websites, print resources, as well as other valuable pieces of information for parents.

*NEAG Center for Gifted Education and Talent Development. (n.d.).
University of Connecticut. Retrieved November 12, 2007,
<http://www.gifted.uconn.edu/nrcgt>.